On Sunday evening, September 14, 2008, Lehman Brothers announced that they would be filing for bankruptcy protection the following Monday morning. If you said to yourself, "You know what, I am going to start trading credit spreads using the recommendations produced by those two "rocket scientists".

You know the world has never been the same. But you want an answer to this follow-up question, "How would I have done?"

Well, just think of the nightmare suffered on Wall Street, and then look at our performance. The numbers speak for themselves.

Now, here's the disclaimer:

The trades shown were generated by the system real time assuming that for every stock symbol, you only took one trade per month. In other words, if there was a repeat trade generated by the system, we assume that if you were already in one option position for that stock, you did not double your position in that stock's options and take second position. Also, we assume that only those trades that could have actually been executed are shown. If a trade could not have been executed, it is not shown. The advisors did make most of the trades shown, but they did not enter every trade shown. However, to give you an indication as to how the service would have performed had you taken all the trades, the complete track record is provided. As a result, some trades shown in this track record are hypothetical. HYPOTHETICAL OR SIMULATED PERFORMANCE RESULTS HAVE CERTAIN INHERENT LIMITATIONS. For a complete description of those limitations, please see the IMPORTANT RISK DISCLOSURE INFORMATION section at the bottom of this web page: <http://www.oddssigint.com>
